H. P. WASSON & CO

In the past our rank has always been first place in this Department, and our present facilities, so much larger space devoted to this department will enable us to accomplish still more, in the way of completeness. The varied and vastness of the stock, and the astonishingly low prices named for all classes of goods, from the fine imported novelties down to cheap grades of home production, will place us far in advance of all competition.

MONDAY we will make special display, and prices named will make it advantageous for you to purchase now, and have a good full season's use of your garment.

YOU WILL NOT BUY THEM SO CHEAP LATER.

PERSONAL AND SOCIETY.

(All society and personal notes for the Sunday issue of the Journal, to secure publication, must be in the hands of the city editor by Saturday noon.)

Social life is such a continuous round of making and receiving calls, giving and going to companies and of entertaining and visiting generally that one's social indebtedness is never quite cancelled. There is never a time when one can say she owes no calls or entertainments, unless she removes to another place and begins all over again. One can hear friends any day becoming the fact they owe so many calls, and some have expressed themselves as wishing no one would call on or entertain them for a year, so they might for once feel the relief which no duties bring. One would very soon be as discontented with neglect as now with social obligations. A fact remains, however, no guests of the numerous companies of the past week with their names had been left from the lists, as each one gave great pleasure to the guests, and the variety of forms of entertainment has been quite as great as during any previous week. Mrs. Morris Deffrees began the week Monday afternoon with a reception in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Deffrees, of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Emma K. Morris, of Duluth, Minn. Wednesday Mrs. A. L. Claypool and daughter, Miss Clipping, entertained several hundred friends. Mrs. George A. and Mrs. John T. Dickson gave one of the largest coffee parties of the season, and the marriage of Miss Anna Collins Wilcox and Mr. Wm. B. Barry was celebrated at 10 in the morning. Thursday was also a popular day. Mrs. John R. Wilson gave an elegant luncheon in honor of Mrs. John Steiner, of Catawba, and Mrs. Edward L. McKee's home was very attractive and filled with guests to meet Mrs. J. R. McKee, who is spending a few weeks here with Mr. McKee and family before returning to Washington for the season. Mrs. S. M. Shepard gave a reception to introduce her daughter, Miss Shepard, and the Kindergarten reception, and tea at Mrs. Henry Severin's was one of the social events of the day. Friday Mrs. Frank H. Blackledge gave a reception from 2 till 6 o'clock, and Mr. and Mrs. Blackledge gave an evening party, both being in honor of Miss Bowman, of Springfield, O., and Miss Spelman, of New Orleans. Yesterday a large number of young people were entertained by Miss Alma Hiegle from 2 till 6 o'clock, at her home on North Illinois street. The Contemporary Club held its second meeting at Mrs. Sewall's, Wednesday evening, and listened to a paper on "The Archeological Institute of America and Its Work in Greece," read by Prof. Charles Edwin Bennett, of the University of Wisconsin.

There are no more "hired girls" in the menage; they are called "maids." No matter whether one has a single domestic, or is possessed of cook, house-girl, butler, baker and candlestick-maker, she must be called a "maid." She may be twenty or sixty years of age, but she is. When there is only one servant, possibly the mistress adopts the title for her of "maid-of-all-work." If anyone speaks of her "help" as anything except "my maid," and at the same time assumes an air of having a score or more servants at her command, she has not embraced the latest form of the "servant question" in polite society.

Brown gave a party, Friday afternoon, at her home on Park avenue, in honor of the brides, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Weaden. Only ladies having claim to the title of brides were included. On entering the parlor each lady was given a card requesting her to describe her wedding journey. The accounts were both instructive and amusing. The ladies were afterward entertained at luncheon.

Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, being the president of the Woman's Missionary Society of Meridian-street Church, gave a conversation at her home last Wednesday night, in the interest of the society. It was a social gathering of friends many of whom are active workers. The music was furnished by Mrs. Lash, Mrs. Henry Jamison and Mrs. G. W.
